

BIOGRAPHY

Andrew Starling is a student of Blockchain Development at George Brown College, with the intention of pursuing a career in that field upon graduation. He is also in the process of attaining a certificate from ConsenSys Academy in Blockchain Development, and another certificate in Hyperledger Blockchain Technology from the Linux Foundation. Andrew has an Honours Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy from the University of Waterloo.

In the process of a career change (or perhaps a return), for the past 18 years Andrew has worked as a professional cook in various restaurants in Toronto, Canada and northern Italy.

Prior to his culinary career, Andrew worked for 10 years as a programmer/analyst and front-end developer, building graphical user interfaces in client-server and web-based environments.

Andrew's hobbies include music production with bass guitar, synthesizers and laptop, and he has extensive experience as an artisanal pasta maker, enjoying cooking in his spare time.

His goal is to attain expertise in the blockchain ecosystem, and fully explore the blockchain's promise of facilitating trust.